ESSAYS ON NUTRITION, HEALTH CARE, HUMAN RIGHTS AND DEVELOPMENT. C. Schuftan

1. The Causes of Hunger and Malnutrition: Macro and Micro Determinants.
2. Technical, Ethical and Ideological Responsibilities in Nutrition.
3. De Westernizing Health Planning and Health Care Delivery: A Political Perspective
7. The Challenge of Feeding the People: Chile under Allende and Tanzania under Nyerere.
8. The Role of Health and Nutrition in Development.
10. Survey on Attitudes towards Nutrition Planning.
12. Foreign Aid and Its Role in Maintaining the Exploitation of the Agricultural Sector: evidence from a Case Study in Africa.
13. Low School Performance: Malnutrition or Cultural Deprivation?
17. The Political Economy of Ill-Health and Malnutrition.
22. Looking Beyond the Doable: Resolutions for a New Development Decade.
23. Egos/Alter Egos of the Main Actors in Development Projects (or Why Projects Do Not Work...).
25. The Project Approach in Development Assistance.
30. Malnutrition and Income: Are We Being Misled? (A dissenting view).
32. Downsizing the Civil Service in Developing Countries: The Golden Handshake Option Revisited.
36. Nutritional Goals for the Mid-90s and Beyond: A Call for Advocacy and Action.
37B. Sustainable Development Beyond Ethical Pronouncements: The Role of Civil Society and Networking.
38. Foreign Aid: Giving Conditionalities a Good Name, or Conditionalities: The Launching of a South-South Counter-Offensive.
39. The Community Development Dilemma: What is really Empowering?
40. Development in the New Millennium: Reflections of an Old Socialist.
42. Equity in Health and the Globalization of the World's Economy.
43A. The Different Challenges in Combating Micronutrient Deficiencies and Combating Protein-Energy Malnutrition or the Difference between Nutrition Engineers and Nutrition Activists.
43B. Letter to The Lancet: Micronutrient Deficiencies and Protein-Calorie Malnutrition.
44. Northern-led Development: Is it Selling Technical Fixes to Solve the Problems of Ill-health and Malnutrition?
45. Actions and Activism in Fostering Genuine Grassroots Participation in Health and Nutrition.
46. Health, Nutrition and Sustainable Development.
47. Reemphasizing the Need to Tackle the Causes of Poverty in the Battle Against Ill-health and Malnutrition.
48. Health Sector Reform Measures: Are they Working? ... And Where Do We Go from Here?
49. On Development, the Real World, Poverty, Equity and Targeting in Health and Nutrition.
50. So What... (In Search of the "Big Picture" in Development).
52. Neoliberal Global Restructuring, or the Fable of the Mongoose and the Snake.
53. Elements for a Nutrition Activism Course and Curriculum. (53A. Also adapted for a Human Rights Activists Course).
54. The Role of Human Rights in Politicizing Development Ethics, Development Assistance and Development Praxis.
55. A Letter to the Student Erica who is Planning to Specialize in International Nutrition.
57. Food for Finding Where your Thoughts are: Variations on a Theme by Isabel Allende.
58. Remembering (a poem by Eduardo Galeano).
59. Letter to The Lancet: IMCI - In Need of Greater Community-centered Focus and Mandate.
61. On Health Sector Reform, Health, Poverty and Other Herbs.
62. What Does the New UN Human Rights Approach Bring to the Struggle of the Poor?
63. Health a Precious Asset, But not a New Potentially Powerful Exit Route from Poverty.
65. Human Rights or the Importance of Being Earnest: A Personal Account.
68. On Statistics.

69. A Reader in Human Rights (211 short essays).
70. Aiming at the Target: What’s Left for the Devil to Advocate? (Some thoughts on the setting of goals and targets: Have they helped progress or not?)
71. Elemental Watson: The Health Sector Reform’s Faulty Logic.
72. Putting Equity and Human Rights in Health on the Agenda: The Role of NGOs.
73. Money is Tinted by the Color From Where it Comes From, or Children are not an Issue of Charity, Ronald! They are a Matter of Justice.
74. Pearls of Wisdom About Health Care Financing.
76. Stepping Into the New Age of the Right to Nutrition: Snail Pace Progress?
77. Poverty Reduction and National Budgets.
78. WTO: No Deal is Better than a Bad Deal.
79. Optional Health Care Financing Mechanisms for Third World Countries: What is Viable?
80. The People’s Health Movement: A People’s Campaign for ‘Health For All - Now’!, (with Ravi Narayan).
81. Towards the Millennium Development Goals:
yes, but...
83. The Human Rights Discourse in Health.
84. Food and Nutrition: The Human Rights Perspective.
86A. Towards Social and Economic Justice in Health: Claiming the Right to health as a Means to Achieve Health For All. (with A. Shukla)
86B. A Primer for a National Action Plan to Operationalize the Right to Health Care. (with A. Shukla)
87. Is the Gap in Policy Processes in Food Security and Nutrition Really a Gap between Knowledge and Action?
88. Our Role as Nutritionists in the Call by the World Bank to Put Nutrition at the Center of Development.
90. How Does the Human Rights-based Approach Change Development Ethics and Development Praxis?
91. The Assessment of the Right to Health Care and the Challenges in Asia.
92. Gender Equality is Not Just a Women’s Issue, But a Development and a Human Rights Issue.
93. Ethical and Political Responsibilities in Our Work in Health.
96. An Ethical Question: Are Health Professionals Promoters of Status-quo or of Social Change?
97. Making Nutrition and Health More Equitable Within Inequitable Societies.
98. The Right to Health: A PHM’s Perspective. (with L. Turiano and A. Shukla)
99. Right of Women to Bottlefeed in Poor Countries?: What is Really at Stake?
100. Governments in times of crisis: seeking an excuse to brush-off their responsibility in upholding the human right to nutrition?

Copies of any of the above papers can be requested free of charge from:
Dr.Claudio Schuftan, PO Box 815, Saigon (Center), Vietnam.
Email: cschuftan@phmovement.org
by just quoting the respective number(s).
Papers are available electronically. Please send your name, affiliation and email address.

Networking of the like-minded, an imperative to overcome maldevelopment, to preempt the negative effects of global marketization and to contribute to the launching of a more equitable development paradigm”.